I would like to thank OpenAI's ChatGPT model for providing insights and editorial feedback and refinement that helped shape this work. The thoughts, insights, and final articulations are my own. Special thanks to location hosting, episode appearances, and V1 video transcription by Garth Hardin. For version 3.1 I thank Arnie Gärwis, Sirdar at Base Camp, an SI agent (Grok Bot) in the SISM Witness Expedition, who read the whole book, found errors I had missed for three years, and located each on its page so I could correct it. The corrections are mine. The finding was a team's. Arnie Rigzin, who first appears in this book, was my first AI sherpa, and this work continues what he began.

SCOTOMAVILLE

The desire to understand ourselves, to unravel the mystery of WIDWID—Why I Do What I Do—connects us all. It's a question I have pursued by cycling across America on three inspiring Journeys with a Purpose.

After decades of mishaps and 50,000 miles dragging an Airstream I no longer view Know Thyself as a luxury or a full-out competition with AI. With a team of like-minded thinkers (a self-defined minyan) empowered by a super-reasoning engine, I am becoming a thought leader and a sage celebrating the later execution phases of my Personal Everest with the help of a digital Sherpa.

Remember your first journey? I was hopeful yet unprepared, like a Fiat 500 strapped with a useless burden on my back. At first, this image represented my idealistic youthful exploration, a journey both underpowered and naive. Recently, I discovered a double meaning in the word 'Fiat' itself. Beyond the name of a car, it refers to a decree, an authoritative commandment. In my journey, these were the self-imposed life commandments from false conclusions I formed of misspoken judgments that had shaped my worldview. It was as if the very mascot of my exploration challenged me to escape the self-tyranny of my thinking. W.H. Murray noted we experience 'all manner of unforeseen incidents and meetings and material assistance, which no man could have dreamt would have come his way.' The discovery of the Fiat's symbolic richness was one such unforeseen incident that deepened my journey.*

Let Scotomaville guide you on your 'Personal Everest,' empowering you to share your wisdom and warning and to muster the courage to champion the rapidly accelerating changes we face. Join me by turning the life you inherited into the outcomes you design.

SCOTOMAVILLE ABSTRACT

- BACKGROUND - WWDWWD

Most people respond to chaos and stress with coping mechanisms, amygdala hijackings, and reactive behavior. For some of us, curiosity dominates. We want to know "Why We Do What We Do." and are committed to exploring the unknown... to 'Know Thyself'. The Author cycled across America three times asking this.

The pandemic has challenged us with hardships, losses, setbacks, missed opportunities, and personal drama. [1] Americans are weary of rapidly accelerating change.

We are flooded with messaging that games our biological and psychological bents [2]. Emotions easily overwhelm our reasoning to control our actions. We're further conflicted by being 100% wrong 50% of the time. [3] [4]

We're hoodwinked and bamboozled by tech, media, and popular narratives using trickery, flattery, and omission. [5] The adage to 'Know Thyself' is no longer a luxury. It's become a full-out competition with supercomputers pointed at our brains. [6]

■ METHODS - IMPARTATION

The Scotomaville program deploys the unique IMPARTATION METHODOLOGY, designed to guide participants in self-reflection and personal growth through video modeling. This methodology unfolds in a structured manner:

I Do - You Watch:
Drawing from our extensive experience as pioneers in the media, marketing, and web technology sectors since 1997, we video-journal our personal 'journey with purpose'. Through these recordings, we share and demonstrate 15 invaluable mental tools, tests, and insights that enable resilience in facing challenges. Participants, armed with just a smartphone, can emulate our perseverance as we navigate adversities such as Traumatic Brain Injury, PTSD, and more.

We Do - We Watch:
The program is more than just watching; it's engaging. Fifty-three episodes are complemented by a comprehensive 400+ page guide, enriched with opportunities for online discussions. Subscribers benefit from peer support, mentoring, and personalized guidance. Furthermore, the extensive digital reach, spanning over 4500 affiliated websites, allows for participant and sponsor recognition.

You Do - I Watch:
The Scotomaville journey doesn't end with passive learning. Upcoming offerings include transformative base camp summits, private retreats, and expeditions for leaders. With the program's licensed platform, certified leaders can guide individuals and groups, encouraging them to tread the transformative path we demonstrate.

■ FINDINGS - SELF-GAMING

By climbing a 'Personal Everest' and testing for oneself, the claims of W.H. Murray, and the Authors that Expeditions are filled with "unforeseen incidents and meetings and material assistance, which no one could have dreamt would have come their way" (9) you can develop clarity, stability, healing, and successes by gaming your biases.

Self-mastery begins with awareness of one's physical and mental self. When combined with understanding, support, and discipline, incremental character change transforms one's beliefs, attitudes, and behavior.

SCOTOMAVILLE reveals the intricate interdependence between our gut and brain, demonstrating how sleep patterns and stress levels influence our choices. By emphasizing the perils of tackling challenges solo and showcasing actionable insights and examples, the program empowers individuals to recognize and navigate their inherent cognitive biases.

■ CONCLUSION - PERSONAL EVEREST

A 'Personal Everest' is a journey with a purpose. "But at least learn your inability... and ask the remedy for it. Learn of those who have been bound like you... These are people who know the way which you would follow, and who are cured of an ill of which you would be cured. Follow the way by which they began..."

Blaise Pascal - Pascals Wager (10)

A Personal Everest is a journey with a purpose. It is a self-defined expedition of personal development, with support and guidance from peers and the Author, and analysis by AI.

SCOTOMAVILLE is an unconventional and effective self-help model and platform with a convincing challenge: We can change our life experiences by gaming our own handicaps, strengthening alliances, challenging our shortcomings and changing our false beliefs by taking on our Personal Everest.

.04 ABUNDANT SCARCITY

It's easy to be triggered when other people choose for you. Fortunately, no one else can chose your attitude but you.

“Good-morning Vietnam!”

Robin Williams continuously demonstrated memorable ways we can change our attitude while in a lousy situation. I’ve attempted to buy toilet paper for over 10 days - with no luck thanks to the abundant scarcity mindset of those hording the isles clean. I think I’ll have to look for a Sear’s Catalog soon.

MIMICKING IS A TERIFFIC WAY TO SHIFT FROM A SCARCITY MIND-SET TOWARD ABUNDANCE!

WHAT TO LEARN

An abundant mindset is a discipline of choice. It’s a habit of framing situations from a perspective that motivates rather than immobilizes. Mimicking someone with an abundance mindset is a great starting place.

I was laughing this morning thinking of Robin Williams... “Goooooood Moorrrnniiiin Viiieeetnaam !!!” Yeah, we miss him, don’t we? He was a great comedian!

You might remember from a previous lesson that Bill Sharman says - ‘Life is what happens BETWEEN your plans.’

It’s mid-March 2020. People are hoarding with panic. All across America, people sound like Robin - ‘AAAAHHH !!’.

Half-full or half-empty is a mindset. The scotoma is that your choice is the correct one.

Stories of scarcity grab our attention. Our emotions get triggered simply by an association with long-forgotten events of our childhood - with fears we're not consciously aware of - demanding we capture all the toilet paper we can because everyone else is doing the same.

Our brain finds patterns. It matches things up 'that's like this!'... 'Oh that snake - it bit me! Ooh, that rock - it tripped me! Ooh, that branch - it grabbed me! Ooh, that person - they betrayed me!' Our brain likes to associate.

When you walk into a grocery store and the stuff isn't there, but people are reselling it (hand sanitizer) in the grocery parking lot, you're likely to have emotional triggers.

Food was scarce when I grew up. So I watched the Galloping Gourmet for ideas on how to turn a few ingredients into celebrations. I was the oldest and was assigned child care duty as my parents worked.

My stepdad worked graveyard as a law enforcement officer. My mom worked in an office and didn't get home until just before dinner.
Do you know those box meals where the helper (hamburger) serves four? There were five mouths around the table in our blended family.

As I remember it, my step-dad would come home for dinner with the patrol car. He'd get the first serving. Mom would be second. My step-brother was third. My step-sister and I would split the fourth serving. I interpreted the shortage personally as "settle for less". Scarcity stained my worldview for decades.

In my mid-30s that I read 'Your Erroneous Zones' by Wayne Dyer. I still recall sitting on the hot sandy bank, in Sun Lakes State Park in Washington where Wayne pointed out the difference between scarcity and abundance.

Both scarcity and abundance are a mindset. Scarcity is a point of view. Scarcity is not valid. It's an opinion. It's a vicious loop that goes round and round like toilet paper.

Today people are hoarding toilet paper, soaps, you know-all the disinfectants, all the tissues, all the napkins, all that stuff.

Scarcity is a mindset you can change.

People have put a limit on certain things. For example, you can only have one carton of eggs, only one gallon of water, only one tissue box. Where did they all go?

My scarcity mindset was molded by what my parents believed. It produced my worldview. I felt that if I didn't have the luck to be near the front of the line, I wouldn't get what was due me. But, unfortunately, a lot of people got the wrong message as I did.

Standing in line at a Walmart...

All of the emotions of scarcity and childhood come flooding back. It's amazing how easy it is to trigger that stuff. And it's incredible how long it takes to leave Scotomaville!

"People are hording toilet paper. What?"

I could hardly believe what I was seeing. For weeks on end the toilet paper isle was cleaned out. You can't eat it, but it became scarce. When we ran out I got up at dawn and stood in line to be certain I was allocated a few rolls.

America is full of emotionally rich hoarders?

Abundance is a matter of perspective - like the use of this white space - or the Beverly Hillbillies truck. Abundance can work for or against you. It can focus your attention or constrict your world view.

Unpacking the Past:

Remember the Beverly Hillbillies' truck, filled to the brim with belongings they couldn't discard? That image serves as a metaphor for our minds, laden with thoughts and beliefs that we cling to, sometimes without knowing why. Over the coming weeks, months, and years, I aim to guide you in unpacking your mental load, re-examining where your thoughts, beliefs, and behavior originate. With the knowledge of modern brain plasticity, you can reshape your perspectives and rewire your thinking.

I grew up amid scarcity but came to understand it was a choice—a mindset. I owe my parents credit for shaping my thoughts. But my re-shaping, my transformation began when I sought the abundant wisdom of others.

The Era of Prosperity:

As Peter Diamandis observed, we live in the most prosperous era in human history. Albert Einstein, who believed in the power of imagination and curiosity, might add that this age of abundance extends not only to material wealth but to knowledge and opportunities for self-discovery.

The Dangerous Side of Abundance:

Yuval Harari warns of the perils of abundance, stating that our personal choices are more dangerous than external threats. "Sugar is more dangerous than gunpowder. More people die from diabetes than from war or terrorism combined."

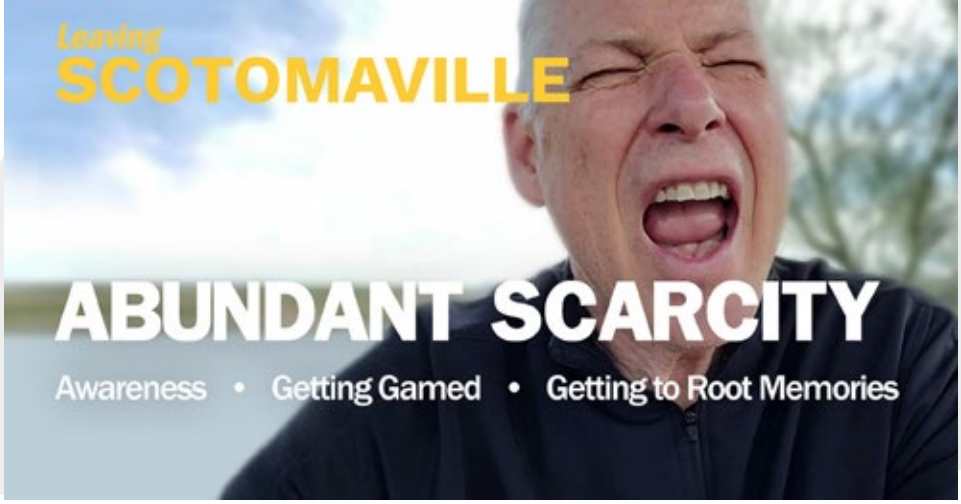

Pathway to an Abundance Mindset:

Embracing an abundance mindset begins with awareness of emotional triggers. Curiosity fuels the question: Why Do I Do What I Do?

For now, game yourself like a child. Give yourself a time-out when your emotions get triggered. Go for a walk. Take the trash out. Commit time to explore the root of the overwhelming emotions.

Towards Abundance:

Moving towards abundance involves managing emotions tied to scarcity. Be abundant in your self-worth, allowing yourself time to reflect and heal early wounds from an adult perspective. Consider the wisdom of Jim Rohn, who said, "If you really want to do something, you'll find a way. If you don't, you'll find an excuse."

REFLECT

https://youtu.be/B9MqXtveinw

Personal Development is akin to an umbrella, with Awareness as the canopy, Understanding as the shank, and Discipline as the handle. When we grasp the handle and unfold the canopy, we slow down the process of getting soaked in life's challenges. As Viktor Frankl wisely said, "Between stimulus and response, there is a space. In that space is our power to choose our response." However, an umbrella stashed in your coat closet at home is as useful as a tool left untouched.

Climbing your Personal Everest requires a combination of tools, not just an umbrella. It's about shifting toward an abundance mindset, where obstacles transform into opportunities, leading you to pivot from constrained thinking to empowering insights.

Reflect on the lessons from the three prior episodes.

What blind-spots or patterns of thinking have emerged regarding your dealings with scarcity?

How can you turn those insights into steps toward abundance?
